Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Vocational Schools The increase in the quantity of manual, household and agricultural arts instruction has been remarkable. The fact that credits are allowed without examination imposes a responsibility. Fortunately, practically every teacher who has been licensed to teach these subjects has been specially prepared for his work in some professional institution or its equivalent; otherwise the practice of allowing credit without examination might result in a lowering of educational standards. Outside of New York City there are now 109 teachers giving instruction in homemaking to 17,113 girls in the upper grades of the grammar school and in the high school. In the same territory there are now 68 teachers giving instruction in manual arts to 13,320 pupils in the upper grades of the grammar school and in the high school. The Intermediate Industrial School The plan as now operating provides that five-twelfths of the school program shall be given over to shop, laboratory and drawing instruction and that the remaining seven-twelfths be devoted to book studies, which practically amounts to saying that the pupils shall for the remainder of the time take the regular elementary school studies corresponding to the seventh and eighth grades. These studies are related to the industrial studies as far as is possible. Both boys and girls have similar work in English and history. The arithmetic course for boys differs from that for girls. The geography is viewed as an outgrowth of the life-long problem of providing food, clothing and shelter. The physiology is studied from the viewpoint of hygiene and sanitation rather than the structural only. The shop, laboratory and drawing work differs with the sex considered. The questions naturally...
